PEARENL LOSS OF PROPERTY AND LIFE

SHALL CHICAGO AID THE SUFFERES phase in order such details as we have received of a meat appalling and wide agreed columnity, which on Sunday evening passed over a portion of our own and an adjoining State, the most destructive and despitely in loss of life and property that has one visited the Korthwest. It well night realizes the worst we have ever read of those scenes of elemental strife and devestation, which have been deemed psculiar to the stoppies. The tornado in question will often thus tropics. The tornado in question will often thus far, (and long large-state we trust) without a parallel in the annuls of disasters in our matchens clime.

From the best information we have been able From the best information we have been able to collect fluis for, the the track of the tornado extends from the heart of Lane, county, Lane, near Cedar Rapids, the present learnings of the Chicago, Lowe & Nebraska Bailread, in a goestally much aust direction across Clinton county, crossing the Mississippi at Camanche and Al, hand, terms fronting each other respectively on the Jown and Illinois, shores,—and thence maintaining its course towards the courte of

The entire distance thus traversed is upwards of enchanced miles, and that through a populous are fertile farming region, dotted with thriving towns some of which, as we have below to record, full in the path of the destroyer. To trace the entire route, and set forth in detail the devastation that marks this march of the fearful measurages of ill; the eatalogue of these less; of homes laid waste, would fill a volume. It will not be collected resultly, never

Thence it passed in a direction a little north of east, several times crossing the line of the Chicago, Iowa & Ne-brasks railroad, At Lisbon Stari n, sixty-four miles west of Clinton, the depot structures were demolished, and a grain of sen freight cars stand-ing on the track were lifted bodily from their

As at Camanche the termedo passed through the heart of the village, leaving searcely a bonne uniquired, and utterly demolishing many of about.

Two churches were destroyed, one of them a substantial brick structure. Happity the loss of life in the latter visitation is less from some cause. As at Camanche many were wounded and there were countless mirroulous escapes. A Mr. Samuel Hopper, a merchant of Albary, who has been making parchases in this city, received a dispatch last evening that both his house and store were destroyed, though his family escaped uniquired. The store was near the river, the house back on the bluff.

In this sity, toward nightfall, black clouds twiled along the horizon, and as weating shut in, the darkness of the heavily draped heavens was illimithed almost incessantly by fleshes of almost nunitermittent lightning. The nome of elemantal strife was manifestly at a great flistance, as there was in this city little or no thunder accompanying the fleshes which followed each

Lake Shore, midway between this city and Wankagan.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

(Correspondence of the Presente y settlement, May all, 1986.

Kames came up in the Senisky seaterday, and Mr. Collamur made a brief but effective appeals, as a member of the Committee on Territories, advocating its tismediate adminston. Mr. Collamur put a very significant question to the Democratic party while he was speaking, which cannot but sink deep in the hearts of the think-own of that party. He asked, "What bepefft has the Democratory derived from the agitation of thu waxed question of the admission of Kamer's the Territorians." The Americable Seastor from Vermont never says say thing that does not have weight with all who index to him; and like world yesterday seemed to be seriously bushed by the whole Southern side of the Senate. The administrative which he gars the South was poculiarly appropriate at this time, when the must agrantom of its leaders admit that its lease of power is about expiring.

Mescur Cry. K. T. May le 1886.

As I closed my last letter, I supposed I was an the eve of a teur to an entirely new and unexplored region; but it was notec. We heard unfavorable news of snow, and the private affairs of some of our party required their insaedists presence at Gregory's, and the trip, after fall debate, was postponed for a season; and the next morning, (May 1), the teuts were structmules barnessed, and all hands refreshed with several days rest, started eagerly for the mountains, the snow capped tops of which were towering high above in to the westward, officen miles distant. The read from beaverte Golden City runs over an elevated plain, gradually rising till it reaches the foot of the Table Monatains. The sead between these two places is very good, and we arrived stricamp into lonely appt, half, may between Golden City and Golden Gate, at about a colock, r. w. I wish my powers of description were sufficient to do justice to the scenery which there surrounded us. We Gate, at about a colock, r. u. I wish my powers of description were sufficient to do justice to the somery which there encrounded us. We were in a valley between the Table Mountains age the main range of the Rocky Mountains. Just below us, half a mile distant, say the thriving sown of Golden, City, consisting of about one hundred entirely new and unpainted buildings, full of noise and business; and above us, bout the same distance ware instant mouth ings, full of noise and business; and above us, about the same distance away, just at the mouth of a glocmy chasm, which on the day following we write to enter, to find our read to this piece, was Golden Gate, a piece of about twonty buildings, whose uspainted effect and new roofs give it the appearance of having aprung up. In a single night. To the right and sutirely detatched from the main range, about a quarter of a mile away, were the Table Mountains, with rug-ed, almost perpendicular sides, risink some mile away, were the Table Mountains, with rug-ged, almost perpendicular sides, rising some sight hundred feet above us, with mighty rocks resting on their brows, which it seemed a sephy' might roll from their lofty resting places, and out upon and crush us in our camp; while on the other hand, altruptly reso the med-chain, and piling incordain upon moun-tain, and height upon seight, stretched away for they have the eya could reach, it was a scene which must make a last-ing impression of any one, but to one fast from the vast plains we have crossed, those sleeps by contrast seem to lift their craggy heads athe Commercial says.

The Chicago Times or Albany Atlas manufactures a description of Tom Sayers, the Eaglish Orampion of the prize ring, and compares is with our portrait of Hoyaer Old Ann—of course, for the purpose of casting rideals and that Mr. Everett will some Its occurs to me left to the highest peak the distance could not Table mountain, and though from the point we left to the highest peak the distance could not be over a mile, more than a long hour of hard toil was required to reach the place we are ght; and as we reached it the sun was just acting behind the distant, mighty, snowy range. The top of these Table Mountains is almost level, top of these Table Monatains is almost level, and in some places half a mile across, and on this elevated plain we account isolated from the world we had left, and could look far back upon the plains, trace the course of the Platte, see Denver City, and look almost straight down upon Golden City and Golden Gate at our feet.

We strolled about till dark, placking beautiful apecimens of cactus, many of which were in fill bloom, though only two days before we had seen the identical mountain covered with three fail bloom, though only two days before we had seen the identical mountain covered with three or four inches of snow.

Our descent in the darkness was somewhat difficult and hazardous, but at nine o'clock we all arrived safety in camp, tired, but highly gratified with our juint, and all hands voted that the scenery and events of this day had paid for all our toil, and that to witness what we had seen, was worth a journey across the plains.

paid for all our toil, and that to witness what we had seen, was worth a journey across the plains.

On the following morning, passing through Golden Gate, we entered the mountains, by a toil road, which rims along a deep and crooked ravine, and is called here a good road, and compared with the one by which Gregory's was originally reached, is undoubtedly very fine; but I have seen better.

If took two days hard labor, tugging up steep mountains, and holding back our wagons with a long rope, others again lifting them from a mud hole, or digging away the side of a hill, to prevent upsetting, fording rapid streams, to reach Gregory's, we found thousands engaged in working leads, guiches, and tunneling the mountains in search of gold, and finding it, too,. That this country is rich, very rich, in the precious, unicersis, there can be no longer a doubt; and yearly hereafter, for a long period, thousands and millions of gold day from these mountains will find its way to the States. No one can doubt't after once visiting here, and seeing the counters indeed, and testing the rich. seeing the countiess toden, and testing the rich-sees of the quarts strewn all over the mountain sides—but a man telth bare hands here stands a sides—but a man with bare heads here cleaned a corp poor chance. It requires capital to work generally these quarts mines; and I have seen many a sanguine adventurer come here with high expectations, and dreams of a fortune already made, look out upon these mountains and quall before the hardship presented und possibles and disheartened, turn to seek his way honeward, cursing the country laid all in it, in the bitterness of his disappointment.

Every claim from Gregory's to the fluowy Range is taken; and to get one, requires capital, and to work it requires still more; and any man in the States, without capital, who has an opportunity of making a living there, and leaves it in the belief that he saw better his fortunes here, will, in nine cases out of ten, sorely is root to the bedden the search better his fortunes here, will, in nine cases out of ten, sorely repent the day he ever started. To all such, Mesars, Editors, I believe it to be year duty to give this wholesome advice, "Stay at home—by all means, stay at lease."

The climate here is very cold and disagreeable. Yesterday the snow howled about our ears and whitened all the hill tops, and has night was blitter cold, freezing water is our yeah basha and forming sold les over two inchas thick. We have a heavy frust almost every night and cold winds prevail frequently all day, Soon the rainy season will set is, and for many weeks it rains almost daily.

I hear of quarts mills arriving almost daily, and an told there are hundreds more on the road. I hope this is no, for there is plenty hard for them all to do, sad they close ben accure to see that they get in neither too much to see that they get in neither too much to little faul? Alon showed in feed without regard to what it is going to do! If it is Sabuth day, when they are quiescent, a they have less air and exercise than our days, and when their stomeohe are not in addition to digrest as much food as on other fact, they eat a double portion. If it is a day in they are to undergo serves taxation and it, and when they can less afford to go hout food, oftentimes they become anxious, in giped to eat because they become anxious, in general rule, when the hody needs the sis of food, less than at any other time, they are no anxious, in general rule, when the hody needs the sis of food, less than at any other time, they sat the lesst. Our food is means to un end. It is rimply the fuel with the the wear to raise steam for carrying on the surposes of life. A man should set as much on rinciple as he prays.

I have been asked, sometimes, how I could perform so large an amount of work with sape-seaty so little dissinction of effectively. I at stitute my power of modurance to a long-formed habit of charaving, every day of my life, the simple laws of bealth—and none more than the laws of eating. It has become a second nature to m. It seems any longer to be a matter of self denial. It is almost lifts an instinct. If I have a server tax on my brain in the morning, I cannot eat heartily at breakfast. If the whole day is to be one of nargung exercise, I sarvery listle cill the wreviour is over. I know that two forces cannot be conceptrated in activity at the same time in one body. I know that ces cannot be concentrated in activi must rest.

If I am going to be moving about out of doors a good deal, then I can give a fuller a ving to my appetite—which is never exceedingly bad. But if I am segged actively and successively in meetal labor, I cannot est much. And I have made eating with regularity, and with reference to what I have to do, a habit so long, that it causes any longer to be a subject of thought. It almost takes care of intell. I gatribute much of my ability to endure work to good babits of eating, and constant sitesulies to the laws of sleep, physical exercise and general cheerfulness. eral health.

Now you have money enough to afford to keep a horse. Why, you are worth two hundred thousand dollars, and you cannot keep a horse because you are so anxious to be worth three hundred thousand! Being worth three three hundred thousand. Being worth three hundred thousand, you are so ambious to be worth four hundred, that you cannot spend half an hour a day to ride with your family. Perhaps you do not like to be with your family. Perhaps you do not like to be with your family anyhow! Well, ride alone, ride!

Another thing which is important to hea the is the use of water. A familiar sequaintance with good water I think is an indispensable element of virtus. Fresh water, and anough of it, should be employed by very sea whe desired health. Utterly to bathe one's salf daily I think materially stands connected with health, as health does with moral or spiritual training.

Billiarda afford women and mee a very gentle, excitement and exercise; but a man is a gambler if he goes into a billiard room! What kind of a reception would I meet with here on Sunday, if it was known that on Thursday I prepared myself for the duties of Sunday by going to a billiard room.

Playing at ten pins is one of the most admito a billiard room.
Playing at ten pins is one of the most admirable means of physical development, but where can a young man go to participate in this game without being in danger of being more contaminated in his morals than he is benefited in his health? without being in danger of being more contaminated in his morals than he is benefited in his health?

But it is well known that it is not without the greatest danger that a young man can go to avail himself of the benefits of this harmless recreation, where he enters the bowling asloon by the bar, and goes out by the bar. Whatever may be the effect upon him of rolling templas, the devil rolls him down towards perdition. If a professional man would learn feneing or wrestling, or boxing, merely for the sake of developing his muscles; in short, if he would engage in any physical exercise that carries with it excitement, enjoyment, social pleasure, where is there a place that he can go and do it, within the bounds of these two great cities, without exposing himself to the most demoralizing influences? I do not know of one. We are pent up. We cannot take the exercise we need on our own ground. We are fortunate if we have room enough to build a house like Jacob's ladder, with its foot on the earth, and its top in the heavens, from which our household angels go up speedily!

Men need some cheerful exercises, in which they can engage during those leisaric half-hours, or quarter-hours, when occur in every man's day. I think a place where a man can play at hilliards, roll the baif, and engage in all sorts of gymnastic exercises, would be, if not a direct preaching of the Gospel, yet an auxiliary to the preaching of the Gospel, yet an auxiliary to the preaching of the Gospel.

I therefore hall the annunciation that has been made to me.—I trust correctly—that there is no contemplation a movement for the establishment in this city of just such a agatem of exercises as I have been describing, under the auspices of the Brooklyn Young Men's Christian man—of every man who is rearing up a family of children.

These remarks apply with additional force to triaking. These remarks apply with additional force to triaking. These remarks apply with additional force to triaking. The process of the structure. of children.

These remarks apply with additional force to drinking. There are but few that do not visitate they duty in this regard. Beverage is a grand cause of sickness. Demestic stimulatis may or may not be injurnous. As to whether they are or are not, every man should indge for himself—but no man should indge. Tex and coffee I do not suppose to be necessarily harmful. Some kinds of tex I ampose are inevitably so, unless men are built of leasher; but I do not suppose all kinds are. Some persons I think ought to use neither sea nor soffee; and some persons are apparently not injured, but benefited by the use of one, or the other, or both. Every man should know whether they are injurious to him or not, and knowning this, should follow his knowledge.
